Sealmatic Conducts A Highly Interactive Technical Seminar In Cairo, Egypt

As part of the continuous efforts to drive industry knowledge and innovation, Sealmatic successfully conducted an exclusive technical seminar in Cairo, Egypt, in collaboration with its esteemed partners ValueTech. This seminar was specially conducted for End Users, EPC (Engineering, Procurement & Construction) companies and OEMs, aiming to educate industry delegates on the basics and latest advancements in mechanical sealing technology.

The said session focused on the latest innovations in mechanical sealing solutions, the role of advanced materials and best practices for enhancing equipment reliability and efficiency. One of the most appreciated aspects of the seminar was its highly interactive format. Following the presentation, a dedicated Q&A session allowed delegates to engage directly with Sealmatic team, raising technical queries and discussing challenges faced in their specific operational environments.

This seminar not only strengthened existing partnerships but also opened new avenues for future collaborations. We remain committed to continuous innovation and technical education, ensuring our customers receive the best in class solutions to meet their technical needs., says – Mr. Sanjeev Vange – Vice President (Sales & Marketing)

With the success of this seminar, Sealmatic looks forward to organizing more such knowledge driven events, empowering critical industries with technological expertise and engaging stronger relationships with its customers and partners worldwide.
